FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

AVISA establish training and consulting partnership with Rusada and pioneer a new CAMO solution

AVISA, the global aviation and airworthiness specialist, has announced a new partnership with Rusada, the world leading provider of IT software solutions for the aerospace industry. The two companies will be working together to provide a bespoke consultancy and training service to clients as well as a revolutionary 'Hosted CAMO management solution'.

Under this new partnership AVISA, who has been using Rusada's Envision software as part of their own CAMO service offering for some time, will begin to provide training and consulting services to a wider range of Envision software users. Customers will include OEMs, commercial aircraft operators, corporate owners and MRO organisations.

"AVISA has an excellent reputation for the delivery of CAMO services and training in Rusada's marketplace and our mutual customers will benefit greatly from this expertise. This partnership will both complement and augment our own training and consulting activities," explained Cameron Hood, Chief Executive Officer at Rusada.

"The introduction of AVISA as a strong training and consulting partner enables Rusada to focus even more of our efforts on the development and sale of our market leading software," said Hood. "The added capability and capacity that AVISA brings will enable Rusada to expand its front line operations, to take on more new business and to further increase customer service and satisfaction."

AVISA and its sister company AVISA Gulf bring approved aviation safety services to partners throughout the world. The partnership with Rusada will enable AVISA, who routinely provide expert services and training to airlines, fleet and individual operators and maintenance, repair and overhaul organisations (MROs), to enhance their training capabilities.

"For AVISA this new partnership means so much in terms of how we can improve our CAMO service using the new 'Hosted Solution' as well as rolling out our newly developed training and consultancy services for the Rusada products", explains Justin Goatcher, Managing Director at AVISA. 'We believe strongly that both aspects of our enhanced relationship will develop into value enhancing support for our collective client bases'.

AVISA and Rusada, who have been working together for a number of years, hope that this relationship will evolve into an even broader partnership with greater benefits for both parties in the future.

About Rusada

Rusada Group is a global leader in the development of complex asset management software for the aerospace industry. With over 20 year's heritage, Rusada, formerly Russell Adams, provides a range of tools and delivers integrated IT solutions to enable the complete management and operation of fleets of aircraft and the optimisation of the service provision around them.

Headquartered in Switzerland with operations in the Middle East, Asia and Europe, as well as a network of global partnerships, Rusada serves over 50 major customers worldwide, spanning all areas of aviation: Operators, MROs and OEMs. Its software is used to manage over 1500 aircraft worldwide in 20 countries.

Rusada delivers a world-class suite of software, newly renamed "Envision", and has become the global standard and industry benchmark within aviation and complex asset management, enabling businesses to understand, manage and optimise the true value of their assets.

About AVISA

Committed to providing the highest level of aviation services to this rapidly growing marketplace, AVISA delivers total technical support through:

- Continued Airworthiness and Maintenance Management (CAMO)
- AVISA's CAMO services enable commercial and corporate clients to achieve better despatch reliability, increased cost savings and improved safety levels.
- Continued Airworthiness and Quality Safety Consultancy
- EASA approved, with good local knowledge, AVISA is able to provide businesses with support and advice across a global range of regulatory issues and requirements.
- Aviation Safety Training: Tailored to the needs of each individual business, AVISA's courses aim to bring all staff to a common level of understanding for a positive impact on the whole business. AVISA's training delivers reduced costs, increased profitability and competitive edge.
- This year AVISA was announced as a Ministry of Defence Approved Learning Provider under the Enhanced Learning Credits ("ELC") scheme and is now authorised to supply two CAA International ("CAAI") training courses to ELC funded learners. In order to achieve this status, AVISA had to undergo a rigorous application process of several months, assessing their operations and training facilities and finding them to be of a sufficient standard to satisfy the high expectations of the MoD.
